what Steinbeck could achieve when there was a partly accidental harmony between structure and materials.

Granted that many of Steinbeck's longer fictions are partial or total failures, ambitious in intention but flawed severely in execution, even the very late work is a mingling of excellence and its opposite. Therefore, despite a turning to less ambitious longer fiction and a considerable amount of journalistic work, Steinbeck remained a potentially major novelist up to his death. In itself, this must be a somewhat unique circumstance in American letters.

Index to Volume II (Nos. 1-3, 1969)

TETSUMARO HAYASHI

America and Americans by John Steinbeck. See Atkinson, Ted.

American Winners of the Nobel Literary Prize ed. by W. French and W. Kidd. See Peterson, Richard Astro, Richard. "Into the Cornucopia: Steinbeck's Vision of Nature and the Ideal Man," Ph.D. diss., University of Washington, 1969. II(Summer 1969), 41-42.

Atkinson, Ted. America and Americans by John Steinbeck. (R). II (Fall 1969), 66-68.

Barbour, Brian M. John Steinbeck: A Concise Bibliography (1930-65) by Tetsumaro Hayashi. (R). II (Fall 1969), 63-65.

Beyer, Preston. "Collecting John Steinbeckiana," II (Fall 1969), 56-59.

A Casebook on The Grapes of Wrath ed. by A. M. Donohue. See Marovitz, Sanford E.

Covici, Pascal, Jr. "In Memoriam: John Steinbeck," II (Spring 1969), 18.

Ditsky, John. "From Oxford to Salinas: Comparing Faulkner and Steinbeck," II (Fall 1969), 51-55.

Ditsky, John. "Land-Nostalgia in the Novels of Faulkner, Cather, and Steinbeck," II (Fall 1969), 68-69.

Donohue, Agnes McNeill (ed.). A Casebook on The Grapes of Wrath. See Marovitz, Sanford E.

Fontenrose, Joseph. "Memorial Statement on John Steinbeck," II (Spring 1969), 19-20.

French, Warren. "Message: John Steinbeck (February 27, 1902-December 20, 1968)," II (Spring 1969), 3-9.
French, Warren. The Social Novel at the End of an Era. See Trimmer, Joseph F.
French, Warren and Walter Kidd (eds.). American Winners of the Nobel Literary Prize. See Peterson, Richard.
Hayashi, Tetsumaro. John Steinbeck: A Concise Bibliography (1930-65). See Barbour, Brian M.
Hayashi, Tetsumaro. "Steinbeck Conference at the University of Connecticut, April 28 - May 3, 1969," II (Summer 1969), 43-44.
John Steinbeck: A Concise Bibliography (1930-65) by Tetsumaro Hayashi. See Barbour, Brian M.
Jones, Lawrence W. "A Note on Steinbeck's Earliest Stories," II (Fall 1969), 59-60.
Keller, Dean H. "Steinbeck at Club '21': An Unrecorded Essay," II (Fall 1969), 69-70.
Kidd, Walter (ed.). See French, Warren and Walter Kidd (eds.).
Kingsbury, Stewart A. "Steinbeck's Use of Dialect and Archaic Language," II (Summer 1969), 28-33.
Lisca, Peter. "In Memory of John Steinbeck," (a poem), II (Spring 1969), 20-21.
Lisca, Peter. "Steinbeck and Hemingway," II (Spring 1969), 9-17.
Marks, Lester J. "John Ernst Steinbeck: 1902-1968," II (Spring 1969), 21-22.
Marovitz, Sanford E. A Casebook on The Grapes of Wrath ed. by Agnes McNeill Donohue, (R). II (Summer 1969), 33-37.
Moore, Harry T. "John Steinbeck: A Memorial Statement," II (Spring 1969), 23.
Moore, William L. "In Memoriam," II (Spring 1969), 24.
Peterson, Richard. American Winners of the Nobel Literary Prize ed. by Warren French and Walter Kidd. (R). II (Fall 1969), 61-63.
Steinbeck, John. America and Americans. See Atkinson, Ted.
Tedlock, E. W., Jr. "A Pathos and a Power," (Memorial Statement). II (Summer 1969), 27-28.
Trimmer, Joseph F. The Social Novel at the End of an Era by Warren French. (R). II (Summer 1969), 37-41.
(R). = Review